

Global Vision Zero Business Council Recommendations

(1) Vision Zero and Globalisation - Business Partners

- The main objective is to ensure that the company's commitment and efforts to build a strong prevention culture based on Vision Zero is cascaded to the management and employees of all business partners
- Suppliers, (sub-) contractors and where relevant customers, should be regarded as partners that form an integrated part of the company's policies and practices as regards safety, health and wellbeing and should therefore be involved in every step of the Vision Zero implementation process
- Procurement: Decisionmaking on the selection of partners should include documentation about their OSH management and performance as well as their willingness to join a prevention culture based on Vision Zero
- Management and employees of business partners should be included in the company's OSH-management system, programme and activities, including training. Where required special awareness and training programmes for partners should be set up
- Partners should provide OSH-performance data for the agreed KPIs re their activities and the people involved as integrated part of their reporting and these should be on the agenda of all business meetings. Good performance should be recognised and support should be offered less mature/ performing partners
